Introduction to:

Quantum Views

(will continue on First Wednesday each month 2017)

INTRODUCTION:

An ongoing monthly discussion to meld spiritual and scientific views to make sense of your personal experiences. Thomas sees the Oneness of Creation, the connection of everything; spirits, humans, animals, plants, planets, galaxies and all of it;

WARNING:

Once glimpsed you can't go back. Scientific and Spiritual explanations not only co-exist but compliment each other. Science now provides great detail for that which religions have postulated for millennia. Science is discovering at the Quantum level that the observer (you, me) determines the form and state of that being observed, and perhaps it's very existence in this physical universe -- was it there prior to being observed? Could this explain the workings of prayers, energy healing, the placebo effect, dream boards and even curses? What does this imply for the greater, long term plan of our eternal Spiritual self?

EXPLORE:

We will explore the macro and the micro and the many ways to understand an incredible and diverse Universe and the essential role we each play.

EVALUATION:

Events and beliefs can look very different when viewed as energy and emotion. This allows a way to measure, evaluate and choose. Some ideas or beliefs look very good until evaluated in this way.

TODAY:

This session will continue the discussion from last week after a short video.

"Energy is the currency of the universe. When you 'pay' attention to something, you buy that experience. So when you allow your consciousness to focus on someone or something that annoys you, you feed it your energy, and it reciprocates the experience of being annoyed. Be selective in your focus because your attention feeds the energy of it and keeps it alive. Not just within you, but in the collective consciousness as well."

-Emily Maroutian

God is consciousness... not a creator. God is the source of creation itself. It (not he or she) IT is not independent of you. It is the totality of everything. So when I call myself God I am not talking about my personal self. I am talking about the expression of the God self that rests inside of me. The verb...
the ENERGY... not the noun. Once you think God is a noun, person, place, or thing, you separate yourself from it and immediately become a limited being. That's what separates the believers (religious) from the knowers (spiritual).
